Alumni Establish Two Awards

Will Recognize Two For Service And Achievement

The Board of Directors of the Potomac State College Alumni Association, Inc., approved two awards at its April meeting. They are the Distinguished Service Award and the Alumni Achievement Award.

Association president William J. Oates, Jr., '56, said that plans for these awards have been underway since last October. He noted that they will be presented annually at the Homecoming banquet.

The Distinguished Service Award is to be awarded for exceptional service and dedication to Potomac State College and or its alumni association and in excess of service rendered for which remuneration is received. The award is not restricted to alumni. It will not necessarily be awarded each year, and in no case will more than one award be given. The person chosen to receive the award must be able to be present, or at the discretion of the Awards Committee it may go to another candidate or else not be made.

An ad hoc committee from Potomac State College, to be headed by the Dean of the College, will make the selection. The committee will be composed of the Secretary of Alumni Affairs, the president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer of the Alumni Association and four members of the Dean's choosing.

The Alumni Achievement Award is restricted to alumni of Potomac State College. The award will be made for distinguished service and exceptional accomplishment in any field of endeavor which has brought honor to the recipient

Faculty, Staff Members Retire

College Awards Diplomas to 86; Sen. Byrd Speaks

A total of 86 graduates received diplomas during the College's 72nd Commencement exercises on May 11.

Prof. Helen C. Criner, registrar, said these students had successfully completed requirements for the Associate in Arts Degree.

Guest speaker for the annual graduation exercises was the Hon. Robert C. Byrd, United States Senator from West Virginia and Senate Majority Whip, who holds an enviable record in both state and federal political circles.

Five staff members were honored guests at the spring banquet of the college Social Club held Sunday, April 27, at the Potomac Motel. The occasion was their retirement from the college community this spring.

Dr. A.G. Slonaker served as master of ceremonies and gifts were presented to the honorees.

Included are Prof. Paul F. Iverson, CPT Herbert J. Hartman, Mrs. Lavinia Hamilton, Wilbur Dawson, and Mrs. Marion Rolls.

Prof. Iverson, who was chairman of the mathematics department, joined the faculty in 1946. A native of Nebraska, he received his AB degree from Hastings College and an MA from Union Theological Seminary. An ordained Presbyterian minister, Prof. Iverson has served as supply pastor and guest speaker at many of the churches in the tri-state area.

CPT. Hartman, associate professor of engineering, joined the staff in 1967. A graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy and Rennsalaer Polytechnic Institute with bachelor and master degrees in civil engineering, Prof. Hartman served 34 years with the Navy in the civil engineering corps.

Mrs. Hamilton joined the staff as a kitchen employee in November, 1948, on a part-time basis and later devoted full time to these duties. Mrs. Rolls has been employed as a domestic at the Dean's home since June 1967.

Dawson, custodian for the Administration Building, held part-time employment at the college from 1949 until 1957

Group of Alumni From Early 30's Has Reunion

A large delegation of former Potomac State students from the early 30s, their spouses and other guests gathered at the Sheraton Inn at Clarksburg on May 3 for a reunion and fun-fest.

The affair honored the Classes of 1931-35 and was planned under the chairmanship of Odus R. Kincaid of Harrison County. Jake Iden of Buckhannon was master of ceremonies and introduced the alumni.

The social hour was marked by reminiscing concerning days at Potomac State in the 1930s, the accomplishment of friends, and the progress of the school.

Graduates now living in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio, West Virginia and other states were present for the occasion.

While John Peters furnished organ music, the approximately 70 persons present enjoyed a steak dinner. Special entertainment was provided by the Tefnet Court Dancers, Court No. 87, Ladies Oriental Shrine of North America.

Betty (Barger) Dakan gave the 1934 theme from College and a business meeting followed.

Identification of all those pictured had not been received at press time.

Three Members Of Faculty Win New Recognition

Three members of the Potomac State College faculty have been selected as Outstanding Educators of America for 1975.

The trio, selected on the basis of their civic and professional achievements, consists of: Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater, professor of journalism and speech and advisor for the Pasquino; Prof. Irene Brown, chairman of commerce and business administration; and Prof. Jack L. Reynolds, history and social science, and adviser for the Young Republicans.

Nominations for the program are made by officials of colleges and universities including presidents, deans, and department chairman.

WITH MINISTRY

Seiichiro Miura, former faculty member in sociology, is with the Japanese ministry of Education in Tokyo, Japan.

Many Cooperate To Make Another Homecoming, Parents' Day Successful

"Here We Are in the Years," a take-off from a Neil Young song, suggested the central theme for Homecoming Weekend last fall with many alumni and friends of the college returning to the campus for a full program of activities.

The participation by many individuals prompted Jay Garnett, President of Student Government, to relate that "well-planned programs and a positive student attitude helped the 1974 Homecoming-Parents Weekend the success it was."

The weekend was kicked off with a pep rally at noon on Friday and later the College Food Service (ARA) catered an outdoor barbeque for the students and the Thunderhill Singers capped the day off with their musical performance in the Student Union.

Saturday's activities began with the mingling of parents, faculty, and students in the Union. Refreshments were served and name tags were issued to all registered guests. Sentimentality ran high as the Potomac State College Gymnasium was dedicated to the memory of the late Coach Dana Lough (See separate story).

At 2 p.m. the Catamounts of Potomac State went down in defeat to Montgomery Junior College of Rockville, Md., but many enjoyed the halftime ceremonies by Potomac State College marching band and the presentation of Miss Catamount XXXVI, Miss Janet Staggs, of Keyser, and her court. Keyser's Centennial Cross Country race finale provided the finishing touch to the half-time program.

Residents of Friend Hall hosted a post-game reception for parents, alumni, and friends in the main lounge. Prizes were also given for campus decorations. A buffet dinner, catered by ARA in the college dining hall for both parents, and students, concluded the afternoon activities.

During the Alumni dinner at the Potomac Motel, Dr. James W. Courrier, '63, of Keyser, was named president of the

Dr. Roy Harman Named Chairman of Visiting Group

Dr. Roy C. Harman Petersburg, was elected chairman of the Potomac State College Visiting Committee for the 1974-75 school year at the committee's meeting last fall.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. Betty Swadley, vice-chairman; Mrs. Elrose Smith, secretary; and Vernon A. Staggers, was introduced as the newest member replacing Prof. Joseph W. Kessel who resigned when he became a full-time administrator at Potomac State. All are residents of Keyser.

The Visiting Committee is appointed by Dr. James G. Harlow, president of West Virginia University. The function of the committee is to help the college relate to the surrounding communities.

Members meet once a month with Dr. A.G. Slonaker, dean of the college, to advise and suggest new programs and ideas. Other members are: Atty, Ralph J. Bean, Moorefield, and Robert Harman and Dr. Donald Kiser, both of Keyser.

Attends Seminar

Dr. Burtron Davis, Chemistry, joined representatives from 23 other nations in Mexico City last November for the 4th Latin American Symposium on Catalysis.

A total of 86 alumni were included in the 127 persons who met late in the fall at the Main Street Methodist Church in Petersburg for a get-together of South Branch Valley alumni, Potomac State College faculty and staff.

Stemming from a suggestion of the college Visiting Committee and with the joint cooperation of the Alumni Association's Director, Mrs. Mary Evelyn Coffman, and alumni chairmen in four counties, the meeting attracted many who agreed that it was one of the happiest occasions in many years.

Dr. Roy Harman, Petersburg, chairman of the Visiting Committee, served as master of ceremonies and of the Grant County committee; Ralph J. Bean, Moorefield, headed up the Harv County action; John Dice, Pendleton County; and Eddie Bright, Hampshire County.

Dr. Charles D. Whitehill, chairman of the College Music Department, brought his stage band of 14 members, which performed before and during the dinner. Mrs. E. E. Church accompanied group singing.

During the dinner, he and one of his private students from Petersburg, Ralph Ours, whose parents are alumni George and Addie (McLaughlin) Ours, performed a trumpet duet.

During and following dinner, former students and faculty members greeted one another and reminisced.

The program opened with

Mrs. Coffman introducing the 19 faculty and staff members in attendance.

Dr. Harman presented for brief talks the following persons: Senator William J. Oates, Alumni Association president, had greetings from that group; Prof. Kenneth F. Haines, spoke on behalf of the Alumni Association and the Alumni Foundation, pointing out that from the time of reorganization in 1961 to the present, the groups have come from a $700 indebtedness to management of $51,000 in trust funds to provide scholarships.

Associate Dean James T. Handlan told the alumni group of the growth of course offerings and of proposed new programs for the campus. Prof. David G. Nuzum explained how financial aid is administered for students in need; Coach Cecil R. Perkins invited the South Branch Valley citizens to attend the All-Star Game, and asked them to keep their eyes open for good athletes for their Alma Mater. Dr. Whitehill described the offerings of the music department for both music major and non-major.

Former President E.E. Church thanked the group for coming and expressed his appreciation for the warm ties "that have bound your lives and mine."

Dr. A.G. Slonaker, dean of the college, closed the program with his own good wishes and by explaining the philosophy of the college and its ties with West Virginia University.

Contributions Still Being Accepted For Lough Memorial Scholarship

The Dana G and Viola U. Lough Memorial Scholarship Fund currently has approximately $4,600 in trust. Income from this trust will be used to grant the first scholarship next fall in memory of the former staff members.

Dr. E.E. Church, chairman of the local Lough fund-raising committee, has said that he would like to see the fund reach $10,000. Therefore, he and the members of his committee, Joseph Stanislawczyk '48, Judson J. Hodges '39, and Cecil R. Perkins '51, are urging alumni and friends to continue to make contributions.

The committee released the following list of donors to date: Prof. Jack D. Alexander, Sam Alexander, John C. Allen, Milton April, D.V.M.; Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater, Mrs.

Pamer '33 will serve one year terms.

Other officers include Mrs. Lena O. Davis '20, vice-president; Kenneth F. Haines '50, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Bonnie Harvey and Mrs. Betty Howard, representatives of the faculty.

Honored by the Alumni Association at the dinner was Ervin L. (Ikey) Dayton, professor emeritus of economics, who was presented an award by State Senator William J. Oates, Jr., association president, who cited him for his dedicated service to Potomac State and its students throughout the years.

Prof. Dayton graduated from Potomac State in 1924 and taught economics on the campus from 1937 until his retirement. He served as secretary to the alumni association for many years and is still one of the group's staunchest supporters.

Concluding the weekend festivities was the Homecoming dance in the Kelley Armory.

McMains Named Second Winner of Anderson Award

Melvin McMains, a sophomore English major from Laurel, Md., was the second recipient of the Orval J. Anderson Memorial Award and received the grant at the close of the first semester.

The award in honor of Anderson, a Potomac State graduate, late professor and chairman of the College English department, is given annually to a sophomore English major who has shown outstanding ability in the field of English. The award was established by Anderson's friends and colleagues, including many alumni, and is administered by the Alumni Foundation.

Enrollment For Two Semesters Hits 835 and 759

Final enrollment figures for the fall term reached 835, according to Prof. Helen C. Criner, registrar, who said the freshman class consisted of 482 full and part-time students while the sophomore class was 205. Special students totaled 148.

Out-of-state students numbered 218 and came from 13 different states and three foreign countries.

Enrollment showed a slight drop for the second semester as 759 students registered but in spite of the slight drop from the fall semester it displayed a gain of 128 students over last spring's registration.

The number for the spring term included 577 full-time students and 182 part-time students. The freshman class included 280 men and 128 women while the sophomore class totaled 150 men and 77 women. Unclassified students numbered 124, including 64 females.

and his Alma Mater. The individual chosen should be outstanding in his career or profession, be involved in civic activities, humanitarian causes, and or creative endeavors in the arts.

Nominations for this award will be solicited from the alumni each spring through the ALUMNI NEWSLETTER. A form is printed in this NEWSLETTER. Deadline for the receipt of nominations in the Alumni Office will be July 31.

An Awards Committee will be appointed by the president of the Alumni Association. It will consist of the three officers of the Alumni Association, the Secretary of Alumni Affairs, and six additional members serving three year terms. The president of the Alumni Association will chair the committee.

Also for this award the person selected must be able to be present, or at the discretion of the Awards Committee, the award may go to another candidate if one is available.

Winners will be announced at the Homecoming Banquet Saturday, October 25. They will receive certificates suitable for framing, and their names will be placed on a permanent plaque to be located in the Administration Building.

Preliminary work on the program was done by Joseph W. Kessel '48, vice-president of the Association, and Kenneth F. Haines '50, secretary-treasurer.

Alumnus Proud As Last Of His Seven Children Graduates From Potomac State

Principal Paul D. Kalbaugh, '33, of Elk Garden High School chats with his daughter Amie, who graduated this spring from Potomac State College, and became the seventh member of the family to join the alumni ranks. Executive Dean A.G. Slonaker feels this may be some sort of a college record.

By DENNIS CARPENTER

With the graduation of Amie Kalbaugh this spring in the field of education at Potomac State College, came the end of a family tradition—which may prove to be a record at this junior college branch of West Virginia University.

Amie's father, Paul Kalbaugh, the principal of Elk Garden High School in Mineral County, and his seven children have all attended Potomac State College. Dr. A.G. Slonaker, dean of the college, said that he believes this to be a record attendance for one generation of a family.

Mr. Kalbaugh enrolled at Potomac in 1931 at the height of the Depression Era. When he graduated, he transferred to Shepherd College, obtained his teaching certificate, and returned to Mineral County to teach in the fall of 1933. Many of the elementary schools, some of them of the one-room variety, where Mr. Kalbaugh began his career of 42 years in education, no longer exist.

Mike's Run, Empire, and Kight's School were some of his first teaching assignments. He became principal of Emoryville School and then the Oakmont School. Then he tried coaching the Elk Garden High School basketball team and started a new era in his career. During the twenty-four years that he coached, he obtained a 65 per cent winning record in basketball including some thrilling victories over many larger schools in the state and a trip to the state tournament in 1961. He began the first cross country team in the Eastern Panhandle and took many state titles.

Throughout this time he was returning to West Virginia University in the summers to obtain his Master's and then to get certified for a principalship, which came in 1967.

Mr. Kalbaugh said that as a teacher during the Depression he realized that there will always be a need for good educators, when other jobs are disappearing. "You may not get rich financially, but the job is most rewarding in the people you get to meet and work with. There is also a certain amount of security in working in education."

In talking with Mr. Kalbaugh and looking at his accomplishments, it's easy to see why almost all of his seven children majored in education and many now have begun careers in this field.

He told each of his children that he expected them to finish at least two years of college. If they wanted to go further in education, it was their decision.

The children took their studies seriously and all were honor students in high school. "The farm life in which they were raised was a great influence on their life," Mr. Kalbaugh said, "to this day none of my children smoke or use profanity. And they all like to return home to the farm as often as possible. They have always been a close family."

Putting seven children through college meant a lot of hardships for the Kalbaughs. When Mr. Kalbaugh decided each of his children would go to college, he sold his car and walked to work for over twenty years to help pay for their education. "All of the children worked during summers or on work-study programs at school to help out," he commented proudly. Mrs. Kalbaugh, in the meantime, had her hands full keeping house and taking care of her seven children.

Patricia and Paula both graduated from Potomac State in 1958. Both are now married and raising families. Patricia is married to Paul Dixon, a materials supervisor for the State Road Commission. They and their four children reside in Keyser. Paula, her husband (Dr. Charles Bishop, Jr.) and two children live near the University of Georgia, where he is a professor.

Charles (Sam) Kalbaugh (PSC '63) is now the Assistant Superintendent of Schools in Mineral County. He and his wife live in Keyser and have one child.

Lois graduated in 1964 and went on to West Virginia University as did most of the Kalbaugh children. She is married to Clark Sharpless, principal of the Oakland, Md. Elementary School. They have two children.

Gary graduated from Potomac State in 1966. He, too, returned to Mineral County where he teaches science at Keyser High School.

Vicki (PSC '73) is now a senior at West Virginia University and is doing her practice teaching in Keyser.

Amie, the youngest, was graduated from Potomac State this spring and plans to pursue a

Gym Is Dedicated, Named to Honor Coach Dana Lough

Potomac State College's gymnasium was formally dedicated as the Dana G. Lough Memorial Gymnasium Oct. 12 during the college's homecoming program.

The dedication proved to be an emotional event with tears shed by many of the coach's former acquaintances.

Coach Lough, who died in June, 1973, served as athletic director and football and basketball coach for 35 years.

Former college president, Dr. E.E. Church, presided as master of ceremonies; Rev. J. Andrew Gullick, pastor of the Keyser Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation and benediction.

Head football coach and director of athletics, Cecil R. Perkins, unveiled the plaque which has been posted on the right side of the main entrance of the gym. Perkins played under Coach Lough in the late 40's and early 50's.

Former Member of Faculty Dies At Home May 2

Prof. Livingston Hunter (Pink) Chambers, 67, a former Potomac State College faculty member, died May 2 at his residence, Ferry Farms, Annapolis, Md.

Prof. Chambers came to Potomac State from WVU in 1933 and taught mathematics until 1940. He taught at Marshall College, Huntington, until he volunteered with the U.S. Navy at the outbreak of World War II. After training at Boston, he was assigned to the U.S. Naval Academy in 1942. He rose to the rank of commander and during his 32-year teaching career at the Academy was voted the most popular professor. He retired last December and was made professor emeritus a few weeks ago.

While at Potomac State, he married Ruth Finnell of Keyser. The couple recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary. A native of Madison, W.Va., Chambers gained the nickname "Pink" because of his reddish hair.

A memorial service was held at 10 a.m. May 5 at the U.S. Naval Academy Chapel. The family requests that memorials take the form of contributions to the American Cancer Society.

Faculty Votes Its Approval of New Divisional Setup

The Potomac State College faculty recently voted approval of a new divisional set-up in place of the departmental designations.

The reorganization plan calls for four divisions consisting of Arts and Humanities, Social Sciences and Education, Natural and Physical Sciences and Mathematics, and Applied Sciences and Career Programs.

Each of the divisions will be headed by a division chairperson. Members of the divisions have nominated two persons for this position and their names have been sent to Dr. James G. Harlow, President of West Virginia University, for his consideration.

Four on Faculty Get Promotions

Promotions for four faculty members at Potomac State College were announced this spring by Dr. James G. Harlow, president of West Virginia University.

Miss Doris Irene Brown, chairman of the commerce department, was advanced from associate professor to full professor.

Promoted from assistant professor to associate professor were D. Anthony Whitmore, English; Richard A. Davis, music; and Dr. James Champion, physics.

Many Alumni Are Recognized By Schools As Teachers of Year

Prof. Jasper T. Morris, '48, chemistry, was recently named the "Outstanding Teacher of the Year" for Potomac State College.

A member of the faculty since 1960, Prof. Morris is a native of Elk Garden where he graduated from high school. In addition to his teaching duties he is advisor for the student Astronomy Club and is active in Boy Scouting and a member of the First Methodist Church, where he teaches Sunday School.

The committee on instruction at Potomac State circulated ballots among students and faculty for nominations for the recognition. The grounds for selection include classroom performance, availability for conference and help sessions with students, respect of students and respect by students, fair grading procedures, and making clear the various objectives of a course.

A committee reviewed all nominations written statements and then submitted these findings to West Virginia University for approval. Announcement was made by Dr. James Harlow, WVU President.

Several other Potomac State alumni also were named "Teacher of the Year" at their respective schools in a program conducted by the Mineral County (W.Va.) Education Association to recognize the important role a teacher plays in the American way of life.

These honors as Teacher of the Year were bestowed upon Quentin Sayers, '48, who teaches driver education and social studies at Fort Ashby High School; Mrs. Irene (McGuire) Twigg, '45, English and social studies at Piedmont High School; Mrs. Marlene (Dawson) Altobello, '69, English and social studies at Elk Garden High School; Mrs. Karen (Idleman) Howard, '69, a learning disabilities resource teacher at Fountain Elementary School; Mrs. Audrey (Wagner) Thomas, who teaches fourth grade at Short Gap Elementary School, Leonard W. Spiker '56, instructor in agricultural science and advisor for the Mineral County FFA Chapter at the Mineral County Vocational-Technical Center.

Two other individuals, who did not graduate from Potomac State but are married to alumni, also shared in the honors program. They were Mrs. Margaret Kessel, first-grade teacher at Keyser Elementary and wife of Joseph W. Kessel, who is on the college administrative staff; and Mrs. Margaret Effland, who teaches home economics in the junior high grades at Keyser High School. She is married to Harold C. Effland, editor of the Mineral Daily News-Tribune.

Also recognized as Teachers of the Year were Mrs. Betty Jean (Cross) Dinteman, first grade teacher at Piedmont Elementary School, and Mrs. Mattie (Gill) Droppelman, teacher for the career in education naturally.

With nine grandchildren, the next installment in this story will be when the next generation gets ready for college. Will they attend Potomac State? The chances are pretty good. "All of my children liked Potomac State and found it to be a good school," commented Mr. Kalbaugh. "It was outstanding compared to the larger colleges in the State."

With his sixty-fifth birthday coming up next year, retirement is inevitable for Mr. Kalbaugh. "I'm not looking forward to quitting; I've enjoyed every minute of my life. If I had it to do all over again, I'd never change a thing. It's been a challenging and rewarding life."
